Supporting Immigrant Communities

Guide to Disaster Assistance Services for Immigrant Houstonians

Mayor's Office of New Americans & Immigrant Communities
Mayor's Office of Public Safety
Office of Emergency Management

A Message from the City of Houston Mayor's Office of New Americans and Immigrant Communities

To All Houstonians and Community Partners,

In the aftermath of a natural disaster of unprecedented proportions, the people of Houston have inspired the nation with their determination, selflessness, and camaraderie. Hurricane Harvey has affected us all deeply, and the road to recovery will surely be a long one. We can find hope, however, in the ways in which Houstonians of all ethnic, racial, national, religious, and socioeconomic backgrounds have come together to help one another. This unity in diversity is one of the things that makes Houston such a special city. Our office is here to offer special support to the thriving immigrant community that forms such an integral part of this city and to help immigrants to address the unique challenges they face in the wake of this natural disaster.

For our community partners, we recognize the critical role you play in the process of helping Houstonians recover from the devastating effects of Hurricane Harvey. Non-profit and community-based organizations are on the front lines of service delivery across Houston, and we want to ensure that you have the information and resources you need to help your communities recover.

This guide—which will soon be available as an app—provides detailed information about the types of federal, state, and local disaster-assistance services available and where you can go to access those services. Although some of the resources are restricted to individuals or households with lawful immigration status, there are many services available to all Houstonians impacted by the storm.

The goal of this guide is to help you better understand the disaster assistance services for which you or those around you may be eligible, as well as the steps you can take to connect to these services. Please share this guide with those in your community who you feel will benefit from the information.

Together, we are all on the long road to recovery. As we continually update and improve this guide, we ask that you share any additional resources, comments, or questions with us. You can contact our office at newamericans@houstontx.gov. Thank you for your continued partnership and commitment to helping Houstonians in need.

Notice

This resource guide was put together by the Mayor's Office of New Americans with the assistance of many community, private, and governmental organizations. Neither the City of Houston nor the Office of New Americans assumes responsibility regarding the services listed in this guide. Inclusion does not imply endorsement or recommendation.

This guide will be continually updated to keep track of important changes in community resources. Please visit the following link on the Office of New Americans webpage to access the most recent PDF files: <http://www.houstontx.gov/na/harvey-relief.html>.

AFTER THE HURRICANE

What is the first thing I should do after a flood or hurricane?

Stay alert. When it comes to hurricanes, the first thing you should do is make sure the storm has passed. The American Red Cross suggests that you stay informed by following local news or weather updates.

“Stay alert for extended rainfall and subsequent flooding even after the hurricane or tropical storm has ended,” says the Red Cross.

More tips from the Red Cross:

- If you have evacuated, return home only when officials say it is safe.
- Drive only if necessary and avoid flooded roads and washed out bridges.
- Keep away from loose or dangling power lines and report them immediately to the power company.
- Stay out of any building that has water around it.
- Inspect your home for damage. Take pictures of damage, both of the building and its contents, for insurance purposes.
- Use flashlights in the dark. Do NOT use candles.
- Avoid drinking or preparing food with tap water until you are sure it's not contaminated.
- Wear protective clothing and be cautious when cleaning to avoid injury.
- For more information: <https://weather.com/safety/news/what-to-do-disaster#/4>

What can I do to contact my loved ones?

- Be creative, and be persistent. If one contact method doesn't work, try another.
- Call during off-peak hours for the best chance of getting through.
- Send a text message, which may go through when phone calls cannot.
- Check your loved ones' social media pages (e.g., Facebook, Twitter), as they may have already gone online to tell their story.
- Send an email.
- Call friends and relatives who may have already been in contact with your loved one.
- Call people and places where your loved one is well-known: neighbors, employer, school, place of worship, senior center, social club, union, or fraternal organization.
- Try sending a letter. Your loved one's mail may be getting forwarded to his or her new location.
- For more information: <http://www.redcross.org/get-help/disaster-relief-and-recovery-services/contact-and-locate-loved-ones>
- Note: If your loved one has a serious, pre-existing health or mental health condition, you may also initiate an Emergency Information Request by calling the Greater Houston Chapter of the American Red Cross at (713) 526-8300 or 1-800-RED-CROSS.

PUBLIC INFORMATION CONTACTS

Who can I call for disaster related information and resources?

2-1-1

211 Texas, a program of the Texas Health and Human Services Commission, is committed to helping Texas citizens connect with the services they need. No matter where you live in Texas, you can dial 211 or (877) 541-7905 and find information about resources in your local community. 211 operators will never ask for your immigration status or give your information to law enforcement or border control.

3-1-1

From traffic fines and sewer concerns to pothole problems and neighborhood complaints, Houstonians can call 311 and speak to one of our highly-trained agents. From outside the City of Houston, callers simply dial (713) 837-0311. Agents are available 24/7 to answer your calls and can provide you with information in multiple languages. 311 operators will never ask for your immigration status or give your information to law enforcement or border control.

ALWAYS CALL 9-1-1 FOR EMERGENCY OR LIFE-THREATENING SITUATIONS

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Who is eligible for FEMA assistance?

The federal government classifies certain immigrants as “qualified aliens” for the purpose of providing disaster assistance services:

- U.S. citizens;
- Legal permanent residents (green card holders);
- Applicants who have been granted asylum;
- Individuals who have been admitted as refugees;
- Individuals who have been granted humanitarian parole for a period of 1 year;
- Individuals whose deportation has been withheld due to status as a political refugee;
- Individuals who were Cuban or Haitian entrants under the Refugee Education Assistance Act of 1980; and
- Individuals who have been victims of domestic violence and currently have a pending petition for relief.
- Individuals who have been victims of severe forms of human trafficking, including those with “T” and “U” visas.

Note: Having a Social Security Number does not automatically mean that you are a “qualified alien.” Temporary Social Security numbers based on a pending asylum petitions are not accepted for FEMA qualifying alien status.

Am I eligible for any disaster assistance if I am undocumented?

Yes, even if you are undocumented, there are a number of resources and services that you can access. In this guide, we identify many services that are available to all Houstonians, regardless of immigration status. Houston local nonprofits will assist undocumented families who do not qualify for other government aid.

Can I go to a shelter if I am undocumented?

Yes. Most shelters are managed by local communities, the Red Cross, and other voluntary agencies like BakerRipley (who have a humanitarian mission to provide emergency relief services and are running the shelter at NRG Center). The Red Cross and City of Houston shelters will not ask people to show any form of identification in order to stay in their shelters. Mayor Sylvester Turner has issued a clear statement assuring Houstonians that immigration status is not a barrier to any emergency shelter. We encourage anyone in need of shelter to seek it, regardless of immigration status.

What if some members of my household are U.S. citizens or “qualified aliens” and others are not?

Some households have members with different immigration statuses – for example, undocumented parents may be living with their children, some or all of whom are U.S. citizens. These households are sometimes referred to as “mixed status.” In such cases, undocumented individuals in the household may be able to apply for disaster assistance services on behalf of their U.S. citizen children or other members of the household who are U.S. citizens or “qualified aliens.”

Does everyone in my household need to be a U.S. citizen for us to apply for FEMA disaster assistance?

No. Only one person per family household has to apply. If there is even one family member living in the household who has a social security number, then the entire household can apply for FEMA disaster assistance. This family member can be a child under the age of 18. Parents or guardians may apply for assistance on behalf the child.

What should I do if I am applying on behalf of someone in my household who is a U.S. citizen or qualified alien?

If you have a child who is a U.S. citizen and is under the age of 18, you can apply for assistance from FEMA on their behalf. You will need your child’s U.S. birth certificate, social security card, name, and age. FEMA will not ask for your immigration status, only the status of your child. The child’s name, age, and social security number are required for the application. FEMA can assist with obtaining a social security number. FEMA will not ask for the immigration status of other household members. Note: FEMA is a federal agency under the Department of Homeland Security and requires all applicants to fill out a government form in order to determine eligibility. For more information about categories of immigrants that qualify for disaster relief please go to this link: <https://texaslawhelp.org/article/disaster-relief-immigrants>

What if I have lost my identification or other documents and have trouble proving lawful status or identity?

It is common and understandable for people to lose documents when disasters strike. Fire, water, and wind can destroy documents. People evacuated quickly from a danger zone may not have time to gather their documents. Agencies that provide disaster services understand this. They will often relax normal application requirements about proving citizenship, immigration status, or identity. Immigrants who apply or ask for help after a disaster should describe their situation. If they lost or left their documents behind when the disaster hit, they should explain this to any agency official who asks for their documents. Loss of documents may affect a person’s ability to receive financial assistance and other recovery-related benefits in a timely manner. Individuals who have lost important documents or whose documents were damaged by Hurricane Harvey should apply for replacement documents. For more information, see section “Replace Lost or Damaged Documents.”

What if I am a foreign national and I lost my visa/passport during the storm?

You would need to go to the consulate/embassy of their home country to report the loss and apply for a replacement. For more information visit: <https://www.usa.gov/hurricane-harvey>. You can find the contact information for your consulate or embassy, see section “Consulates and Foreign Governments.”

What if my visa expired on the day of the storm?

US Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) offers assistance and extensions for people affected by unforeseen circumstances like Hurricane Harvey. Contact the office nearest you by calling: 800-375-5283 (TDD for the deaf and hard of hearing: 800-767-1833)

What if I do not speak English well and need help applying for disaster services?

Agencies that help disaster victims often have staff who speak languages other than English, or they may use interpreters who can help people who don't speak English. The interpreters may be at the disaster site or available by telephone. When interpreting services are provided, they should be free of charge. City of Houston agencies are required to provide interpretation services, including the use of telephonic interpretation, oral or written translation services, and translation of essential public documents for non-English speakers seeking information or assistance related to a City of Houston service.

Disaster victims should not hesitate to ask for an interpreter if they need one. They should tell the agency staff person what language they speak and ask for an interpreter. Be sure to insist that an interpreter be provided if none is offered. Oftentimes, someone will not be aware that this service is available. Call 311 or the Office of New Americans at 832-393-1010 for more information. For more information, see section “Resources for Non-English Speakers.”

Will accepting disaster services prevent me from being able to get a “green card” or U.S. citizenship?

No. Emergency disaster relief is exempted by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) from public charge consideration. Receiving disaster services from the government does not make an immigrant ineligible for lawful permanent residence (getting a “green card”) or citizenship. Receiving disaster assistance does not make an immigrant a “public charge.” More information is available at www.uscis.gov

What can I do if I am undocumented and was not paid for work I performed?

If you work for a City of Houston contractor or subcontractor on a City project, please contact the Office of Inspector General at (832) 394-5100 or visit the City of Houston OIG website at <http://www.houstontx.gov/legal/oig.html>. If you do not work for a City contractor, please contact the Texas Workforce Commission at (800) 832-9243 or visit their website at <http://www.twc.state.tx.us/>.

Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) Sites

The Houston Health Department opened four Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) sites dedicated to help people affected by Harvey's unprecedented flooding. The sites will begin registering pregnant women, women who recently had a child, infants, and children under the age of 5 for WIC benefits.

- For a WIC site close to you, call 2-1-1.
- Hours of operations are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- WIC clients who evacuated and left behind their WIC card, food, or formula benefits can replace the items by going to an open WIC clinic.
- Special procedures implemented by the Texas Women, Infants, and Children program now allow people to easily enroll and receive food and infant formula benefits, breastfeeding support, and referrals for shelter and other resources. Disaster victims will be asked to sign a self-declaration form declaring their need for WIC benefits due to Hurricane Harvey.
- Anyone with custody or guardianship of infants and children under 5 years of age can apply for their child.
- People interested in signing up for WIC and current clients in need of benefits can call 832-393-5427.

UNDOCUMENTED HOUSTONIANS

Am I eligible for any disaster assistance if I am undocumented?

Yes, even if you are undocumented, there are a number of resources and services that you can access. In this guide, we identify many services that are available to all Houstonians, regardless of immigration status. Houston local nonprofits will assist undocumented families who do not qualify for other government aid.

Can I go to a shelter if I am undocumented?

Yes. Most shelters are managed by local communities, the Red Cross, and other voluntary agencies like BakerRipley (who have a humanitarian mission to provide emergency relief services and are running the shelter at NRG). The Red Cross and City of Houston shelters will not ask people to show any form of identification in order to stay in their shelters. Mayor Sylvester Turner has issued a clear statement assuring Houstonians that immigration status is not a barrier to any emergency shelter. We encourage anyone in need of shelter to seek it, regardless of immigration status.

FEMA CASH ASSISTANCE

FEMA Cash Assistance – Non-Housing Needs

FEMA provides cash assistance for disaster-related medical and dental expenses, disaster-related funeral and burial expenses, clothing, household items, tools required for your job, educational materials, fuel for heat, clean-up items, vehicle damage, moving and storage expenses, and other expenses deemed necessary by FEMA or authorized by law. You or someone who lives with you must be a U.S. citizen or “qualified alien” to apply.

For more information and to apply for assistance:

- Apply online: visit <https://www.fema.gov/apply-assistance>
- Apply by phone: call 1-800-621-3362 or TTY 1-800-462-7585
- Apply in person: at the George R. Brown Convention Center or the NRG Stadium

You will need the following information to complete the registration:

- Social Security Number (SSN): If you are undocumented, you will not be personally eligible for FEMA cash assistance programs. However, your household may still be eligible to receive assistance, as you may apply on behalf of your U.S. citizen child, or another adult household member may qualify the household for assistance.
- Insurance information: You will be asked to identify the type(s) of insurance coverage you have.
- Financial information: You will be asked to enter your family’s gross total household income at the time of the disaster.
- Contact information: Along with the address and phone number where the damages occurred, you will be asked for information on how FEMA can contact you. It is very important that you provide FEMA with your current mailing address and phone numbers where you can be contacted.
- Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT) Direct Deposit Information (optional): If you are determined to be eligible for assistance and would prefer that funds be transferred to your account, you will be asked for your banking information, which includes: the institution name, type of account, routing and account number.

RENTER'S RIGHTS

My rented property was damaged in the disaster. What are my rights?

Most leases have terms that say what happens if the property you're renting is damaged or destroyed by a disaster. Read your lease. If you don't have a copy, contact your landlord and ask for one. Note: If you don't have a written lease, your landlord is still legally responsible to repair the property.

Tell your landlord as soon as possible about the property damage. Ask what repairs are needed, how long they will take, and if you have to leave the property while the repairs are being done. If your landlord moved because of the disaster, don't send a rent payment until you are sure that your landlord will receive it. A pending FEMA application doesn't excuse your obligation to pay rent.

Can I terminate my lease because of property damage?

It depends on the terms of your lease and the extent of the damage. Read your lease first. If you don't have a written lease or it doesn't address disasters, the following laws may apply:

- A rental property that is totally unusable for residential purposes is considered uninhabitable in its current condition. Either you or your landlord may terminate the lease by giving written notice any time before the repairs are completed. If you had to move, you must still pay rent on the property you left. Try to negotiate a suspension or reduction of rent with your landlord. If you terminate your lease, you are responsible only for pro-rated rent due up until the date you moved out. You will still owe any charges that accrued up to that point, including past-due rent. Make a written, dated request for return of your security deposit with a forwarding address where it is to be sent. If there is damage to the property not caused by the disaster, your landlord can withhold some or all of your deposit to cover it. If your security deposit is withheld, your landlord must provide a written, itemized accounting of the repairs and cost. If your utilities are separate from your lease, call the utility company to shut them off. Give a forwarding address to send a refund of your utility deposit. You are responsible for utilities up to the date they are shut off.

- A leased property is partially unusable for residential purposes if you can still live there while repairs are being made (unless your lease says otherwise). Your landlord does not have to start repairs until they have received money from the property insurance company to make the repairs. As long as you stay on the property, you must keep paying rent according to your lease. You can ask your landlord to reduce your rent because you are not getting full use of the property. This includes common areas like walkways, pools, parking, and laundry rooms. If your landlord agrees to a temporary rent reduction, get a written, signed agreement. If you can't agree to a reduction, you can sue your landlord to get a court order for reduced rent while waiting on the repairs to be finished.

Does my landlord have to lower my rent if my home is damaged?

No. You cannot reduce your rent unless your landlord agrees or your lease gives you that right. Talk to your landlord and work out a deal. If you cannot, then you have the right to file a lawsuit and seek a court order reducing your rent.

What do I do if I lost my job because of the disaster and can't pay rent?

If you do not pay rent your landlord can give you a notice to move. Your landlord may later file an eviction case against you. If your rent is subsidized by the government, you are entitled to have your part of the rent reduced. You should contact the agency that helps you with your rent to get a reduction.

Can my landlord make me move immediately if I can live in my home?

No. A landlord can only make you move by giving you a notice telling you to get out by a certain date and then filing a lawsuit after that date. You cannot be evicted without reason.

- If your lease is expired, your landlord may be able to force you to move by giving you a 30-day notice.
- If your landlord locks you out and refuses to give you a key, contact your local justice of the peace. The justice of the peace may order your landlord to immediately unlock your door by signing a "writ of re-entry."

Can my landlord make me move so they can make repairs?

If you can still live in the home, you do not have to move until the lease is over. If you have a written lease, it may cover this situation. If not, your landlord can only make you move if your home is not safe to live in. The landlord can move you temporarily while making extensive repairs, but must move you back if your lease is not over.

What do I do if I am served with an eviction lawsuit?

- Carefully read the papers and be sure to show up to tell your side of the story.
- You have the right to represent yourself. You can also call Lone Star Legal Aid for information or to represent you if you qualify. In some types of eviction cases you can take a friend to help.
- You have the right to appeal even if you lose in Justice of the Peace Court.

What do I do if my landlord does not refund my security deposit or pre-paid rent?

Wait until 30 days after you gave the landlord your new address in writing. Then you can contact legal aid for help.

JOB ASSISTANCE

Texas Workforce Commission

- Those with work permits who have lost their jobs because of a disaster may qualify for regular unemployment compensation.
- Apply for regular unemployment compensation at:
<https://www.twc.state.tx.us/jobseekers/unemployment-benefits-services>.
- Call the Texas Workforce Commission at: 1-800-939-6631

Texas Workforce Commission Disaster Unemployment Assistance

Those with valid work permits who do not qualify for regular unemployment benefits can apply for Disaster Unemployment Assistance.

- <https://www.twc.state.tx.us/jobseekers/disaster-unemployment-assistance>
- Call the Texas Workforce Commission at: 1-800-939-6631.

To be eligible for help under Disaster Unemployment, one of the following must have occurred because of the disaster:

- You lost your job, which was more than 50% of your total income.
- You live in, work in, or travel through the disaster area.
- Your place of employment was damaged or closed.
- You were scheduled to start work but the job no longer exists or you can no longer reach the new job.
- You suffered injury or incapacitation.
- You became the breadwinner or major support of the household due to the death of the head of household.

Temporary and seasonal workers are only eligible for DUA for the weeks that they would have been employed if the disaster had not occurred. For example, if a seasonal worker was scheduled to work for four weeks after the disaster and then under normal circumstances would be terminated, that worker would be eligible for only four weeks of DUA.

THOSE WITHOUT FLOOD INSURANCE

Those without flood insurance for their homes may be able to access some of the following resources:

1. Register with FEMA (<https://www.fema.gov/hurricane-harvey> or www.disasterassistance.gov) OR call 1(800) 621-FEMA (3362). FEMA applicants may be eligible to receive: rental payments for temporary housing, unemployment payments, loans to cover residential losses not covered by insurance, and grants for home repairs and replacement of personal property, as well as other disaster-related needs.

What you'll need:

- Social security number
- Address of location where the damage occurred (pre-disaster)
- Current mailing address
- Current telephone number
- Insurance information (home and/or flood insurance, if any)
- Bank checking/savings routing and account number (this allows FEMA to directly transfer disaster assistance funds into your bank account)
- A description of your disaster-caused damages and losses. Take pictures of all damages before you start to mitigate repairs or throw damage items away. Try to locate receipts or credit card transactions of purchases.

2. File for the Disaster Assistance and Emergency Relief Program

(<https://www.benefits.gov/benefits/benefit-details/4418>), and file your Publication 547 form (<https://www.irs.gov/publications/p547/>) with the IRS. Both of these programs allow for residents to write off their losses via taxes, and even refile your most recent taxes, thus potentially getting an unexpected refund, something that could go a long way in recovery.

3. Apply for the Disaster Legal Services Program

(<https://www.benefits.gov/benefits/benefit-details/431>). Through this program, the government provides legal services to lower-income individuals. This can help when seeking insurance claims, dealing with contractors and home repairs, etc. A huge benefit.

4. Apply for Rebuild Houston Together

(<http://www.rebuildinghouston.org/homeowners.htm>), a group that helps senior citizens rebuild their homes.

5. See if you belong to a group that is a member of the Tool Bank

(<http://www.houstontoolbank.org/borrow-tools/first-time-borrowers/>), a group that brings much needed tools to a disaster area. Note you must be a part of one of their member orgs, such as a church or other charity, including neighborhood associations.

6. Apply for assistance with Team Rubicon

(<https://teamrubiconusa.org/response/capabilities-services/>) a group that specializes in helping gut homes damaged by disaster so that trade professionals can come in and get the job done faster and cheaper.

7. Workers can apply for lost wages through Texas Workforce Commission:

<http://www.twc.state.tx.us/jobseekers/disaster-unemployment-assistance> or call 1-800-939-6631 weekdays 8am-5pm. The Texas Workforce Commission has started to accept applications for disaster-related unemployment benefits to aid workers who lost jobs or self-employed individuals who were unable to work because of damage inflicted by Hurricane Harvey. A claim begins the week of the application, retroactive to that Sunday. Unemployed/underemployed workers should not wait until they return to work to apply.

HOME INSPECTIONS

For a detailed guide visit: <http://sbpusa.org/start-here/>

Preparing for An Insurance Inspection of Your Home

After the flood, notify your insurer as soon as possible. Give them your name, address, policy number, and the date and time of your loss. If you are unable to stay in your home, tell your agent where you can be reached. If you are able, follow the call with a letter that details the problem. Keep a copy of this letter with you.

Your insurance agent will arrange for an adjuster to visit your home and assess the damage. Make sure that the adjuster is properly licensed ahead of time. On the day of the home inspection, check the identity of the adjuster to make sure they are who they say they are.

- You can visit this website to check the adjustor's license:
<https://txapps.texas.gov/NASApp/tDi/TdiARManager>

If you are able to safely enter or return to your home, take the following steps to prepare for an insurance inspection:

1. Stay Safe: Check for any visible structural damage, such as warping, loosened or cracked foundation elements, cracks, and holes before entering the home. Turn off all water and electrical sources—even if the power does not work, find your fuse box and turn off all fuse connections. Contact utility companies if you suspect damage to water, gas, electric, and sewer lines.
2. Take Pictures: Before you remove any water or make any repairs, fully document the damage by taking photographs or videos.
3. Protect Your Health: The water in your home could be contaminated by sewage or household chemicals. Wear boots and rubber gloves as you move around the home. Throw away any food that may have come into contact with flood waters. FEMA recommends boiling water until authorities declare the water supply is safe.

4. Remove Water: After you receive approval from your insurance company to remove the water, use equipment intended for water removal to clear your home. Be careful not to injure yourself, especially if you are carrying buckets up and down stairs. Open doors and windows to allow fresh air to circulate.
5. Mitigate Mold Damage: Mold can develop within 24 to 48 hours of a flood, so remove wet contents as soon as possible, including carpeting and bedding. Always photograph the items damaged from the flood. Before removing wet wallboards and baseboards, take photographs to document the water level in the home. Carefully poke holes into the drywall at floor level to allow water trapped behind it to escape.

To Clean Mold:

- Put on personal protective equipment to protect your eyes, nose, mouth, and skin.
 - If you use cleaning products, do not mix the products together. DO NOT mix bleach and ammonia. The combination will create toxic vapors.
 - Scrub surfaces and clean with water and a detergent. Remove all mold you can see. Dry right away.
 - Do not cover mold with paint or caulk. The mold will continue to spread.
 - Dry your home and everything in it as quickly as possible.
6. Secure the Property: Make sure that no additional damage occurs by putting boards over broken windows and securing tarp over the roof if it has been damaged. Take photographs of your work to prove to the insurance company that you did everything possible to protect your home against further damage.
 7. Protect Your Family: If your home is not safe to stay in, move to a shelter or another location. Some insurance companies will help pay for temporary housing while your home is being repaired. Contact your insurer to find out what they offer.

FEMA Home Inspections

Residents awaiting inspectors sent by the Federal Emergency Management Agency can begin their cleanup process and remove trash prior to the arrival of FEMA inspectors. If you do not have insurance to cover your disaster-related damages, an inspection performed by a FEMA inspector is required to process your application.

Preparing for a FEMA home inspection includes removing as much trash from inside and out of a residence as is physically possible, as it facilitates the process. Trash can be removed before your insurance company visits the property. Prior to disposing of damaged property, take an inventory of it and/or photographs. Your municipality can provide information on its scheduled trash removal.

Upon arrival the inspector will request proof of residency. The address on the documents or identification must match the residence that was damaged. The following are accepted forms for proof of residency:

- Owners: Proof of ownership (your deed, tax records, mortgage payment book, or a copy of your dwelling's insurance policy for the address, showing you as the owner).
- Owners and renters: Proof of occupancy (your driver's license address, any first-class government mail sent to you within the last three months at that address, or recent utility bills in your name at that address) and insurance policies.
- Renters only: lease agreement

TOXIC WASTE MANAGEMENT

If floodwaters have entered your home, there is a chance that the waters carried toxic waste. Especially if you live close to a waste facility, industrial area, or illegal dumping ground, there is potential for serious health risks.

If you believe that you or your home have been exposed to toxic floodwaters, it is important that you call 3-1-1 to be connected to services that provide toxic waste and public health management. 3-1-1 can also connect you to services that assist with picking up and removing storm-debris.

311 operators are available 24/7 to answer your calls and can provide you with information in multiple languages. 311 operators will never ask for your immigration status or give your information to law enforcement or border control. Do not be afraid to call 311 to be connected to services that you and your family need.

HUMAN TRAFFICKING

People who were forced to leave their homes because of Hurricane Harvey may become more vulnerable to human trafficking—both labor trafficking and/or sex trafficking. Please know that traffickers can use a person’s vulnerabilities by meeting their basic needs or luring a person into a relationship and then forcing, defrauding, or coercing them into selling sex. For people that will be looking for work, make sure you only accept jobs from people you trust to ensure you are paid for your work and are in control of your identification. If you do not want to talk to law enforcement, say so and they will transfer you to a service provider.

To report human trafficking,

- Call the National Human Trafficking Hotline: 1 (888) 373-7888. Over 200 languages available.
- Text BeFree to (233733).

DONATE

To contribute to the City of Houston's recovery efforts, please donate to the Hurricane Harvey Relief Fund, established by Mayor Sylvester Turner and County Judge Ed Emmett. The fund is administered by the Greater Houston Community Foundation and accepts tax-deductible flood relief donations. Thank you for your consideration. Your support means a great deal to our fellow Houstonians.

Methods to Donate:

- Online Credit Card Donations:
Visit www.ghcf.org. Online credit card donations will be assessed a small fee, typically 3%, by the credit card companies. Donors have the option of increasing their credit card donations to cover this fee.
- Mail Checks or Money Orders to:
Greater Houston Community Foundation
5120 Woodway Drive
Suite 6000
Houston, TX 77056.
- Wire Money Transfers to:
